

Make decisions about my life.

Vote.

Choose where to live.

Decide how to spend my money.

When I turn 18 years old, I have certain rights.

I keep these rights unless a court/judge says that I cannot make decisions and assigns someone to make decisions for me. This person is called a guardian or a conservator.

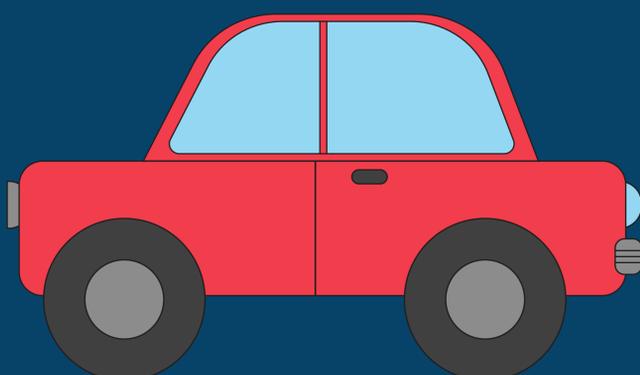

Sign documents (contracts).

Make decisions about my health and medical care.

Drive.

Make decisions about relationships with others.

